From The Editor

Christine Reppert
Director of Public Relations

By the time you receive this issue of the magazine, the professors at Wesleyan will have received their Apple Macintosh computers and will be hard at work discovering applications for the computer in their coursework. The Computer Focus program and the planning that preceded it are the topics of our faculty author, Dr. John A. Rakestraw, Jr., assistant professor of philosophy and religion (see page 2).

I also would like to point out the two tear-off return cards included in this magazine. Wesleyan wants to continue to increase enrollment and we welcome your help.

Quite often, you are the first representative of the College that comes in contact with a prospective Wesleyanne. If you will fill out the referral card and drop it in the mail, the admissions representatives will take it from there. Sending in the endorsement statement reply card will waive a student's application fee.

I hope in reading this magazine you will get a sense of the climate of excitement and anticipation at Wesleyan as a result of the successful completion of the Campaign for Advancement, Computer Focus and our ranking in U.S. News and World Report. I invite your comments and suggestions for future features in the Wesleyan College News.

Wesleyan Ranks At The Top

Wesleyan College is one of the top 25 regional liberal arts colleges in the country, according to U.S. News and World Report!

The annual survey, "America's Best Colleges," ranks the colleges and universities based on the quality of the student body, which is determined by the schools' selectivity; strength of the teaching and faculty; budget and resources; and the ability of the school to retain students through graduation. Wesleyan was ranked number 22 out of the 418 primarily undergraduate colleges placed under the regional liberal arts colleges category.

Betsy Bauer, a senior editor at U.S. News and World Report, is quoted by the Atlanta Journal and Constitution as saying, "We are trying to give students who are looking at colleges a way to get a handle on a vast amount of information. We think this is a good starting point." 🦉

MacWesleyan

In 1836, Wesleyan College became the world's first chartered college to grant degrees to women. In 1989, Wesleyan will make history again when all freshmen receive personal computers. In addition to being the first college in the Southeast to give all its student computers, Wesleyan is the first women's college to offer such a program.

I

By John A Rakestraw, Jr., Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Religion
Chairman, Computer Focus Committee

spent most of last year looking forward to this past summer. I expected it to be a significant summer in my life because I would finally complete the requirements for my Ph.D. degree. I completed the degree, as expected, early in June, and I must admit that I'm still a bit excited about having that behind me.

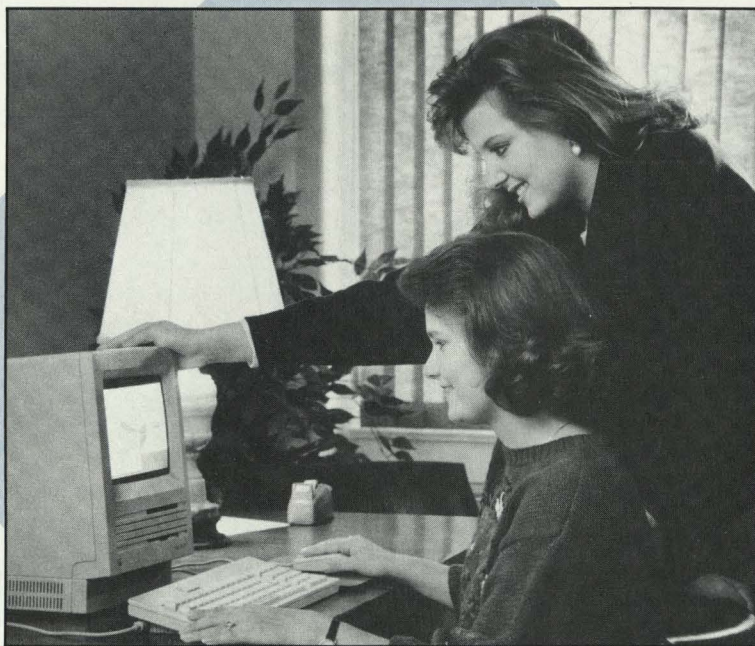

However, I think that I will remember this summer as the first summer of Computer Focus. Wesleyan's Computer Focus Committee stayed very busy evaluating the proposals of more than 25 hardware and software companies. We also evaluated more than 40 applications for the position of Computer Focus Director. Both the vendors and the applicants were very excited about the prospects of working with Wesleyan, and their excitement helped us to realize that Computer Focus could be even more significant than we had dreamed.

I could tell many stories about our experience this summer, but one is especially apropos. We needed more information about a software program that students and professors could use to organize their research, so I telephoned the author of the program. When a woman answered the phone, she said, "Dean's Office." I fumbled around for a moment before asking to speak to the man who had written me. I fully expected to be told that I had the wrong number, but she put me through to my party.

y implementing this program we are not moving away from our emphasis on the liberal arts, and we certainly are not trying to become a technical school. Instead, we are trying to use the computer to enhance what we are already doing.

I told him that he had some explaining to do. After all, why was the author of a software program working in a dean's office? He laughingly told me that I had reached the dean's office of a major university's law school and that he was working there because he is the dean of that law school. He later turned the tables by asking why a philosophy professor was interested in learning about a computer program.

The story illustrates an important characteristic of the use of computers in education: even non-technical people are finding the computer to be an effective educational tool. The story also illustrates a crucial point of Wesleyan's Computer Focus: by implementing this program we are not moving away from our emphasis on the liberal arts, and we certainly are not trying to become a technical school. Instead, we are trying to use the computer to enhance what we are already doing.

We have developed Computer Focus simply because we are convinced that an educated person in today's society has to be able to not only use the computer as a tool in those situations in which its use is appropriate, but also to recognize those situations in which one would be better off working without the computer. Moreover, educators are using computers more and more. It's not a matter of whether we need to learn how to use computers more effectively in support of the educational process. Instead, it is a matter of when and how we are going to use them.

Computer Focus is already visible on Wesleyan's campus in the person of Bruce Humphrey, whom we have hired as the program's first director. He is meeting with faculty members individually to discuss how they might use computers. In November, each full-time member of Wesleyan's faculty received an Apple Macintosh computer along with a printer, word processor, and spreadsheet. All of this is something of a prelude to next fall, when each entering full-time student will be provided her own Macintosh, printer, and bundle of software. While it's too early in the process to predict most of the ways she'll be expected to use the package, consider the following scenario.

It's late in the evening. You decide it's time to tackle your philosophy assignment, so you sit down in front of your computer. On the screen you see the syllabus for the semester. The reading assignment for tomorrow's class is a selection from David Hume's An Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding, but you're interested in seeing how this assignment fits in with the rest of the semester.

You press a key and an outline of the philosophers you'll be studying, showing how each has influenced and was influenced by other philosophers, appears on the screen. You see that Hume, together with Rene' Descartes, made a significant impact on Immanuel Kant's philosophy, so you go back to the course syllabus and type a note to yourself to notice the relationships between Hume, Descartes, and Kant when you come to Kant later in the semester. While you are typing this note, however, you seem to recall the math professor's mentioning Descartes when she was giving her introductory lecture on the history of mathematics.

"Can anyone possibly like both math and philosophy?" you wonder. You go back to the outline of philosophers, click on Descartes' name and a brief biography appears on the screen. You see that Descartes was influential in both fields, and then you ask the computer to show you the biographies of all the philosophers who also made some contribution to mathematics. This triggers an idea for a paper topic, so you go back to the course syllabus and type a note reminding yourself to ask the professor if you can write a paper on the relationship between math and philosophy. Remembering your assignment, you go back to David Hume in the course outline, click on his name and read his brief biography, and turn to the text itself.

This scenario depicts one small way that Computer Focus might change the shape of the educational process here at Wesleyan. There are countless other possibilities, and all of us participating in the program—students, faculty, and administrators—will be exploring them in the next several years. We're excited about the prospects. ☺

Lawrence and Julia Willet donated over one-third of the funds needed to complete the building of a library in honor of Lucy Lester Willet. The 1881 graduate's portrait hangs in the Willet Library lobby.

Lawrence and Julia Brantley Willet

In 1877, a 15-year-old young woman traveled nearly 200 miles by train to study at The Wesleyan Female College. During the four years she attended Wesleyan, Lucy Lester proved to be a popular and outstanding student. A member of the Philomathean Society, she graduated in 1881.

Eighty-five years later, her son, Lawrence, spoke to the crowd gathered for the ground breaking ceremony for the library named in her honor. "I am deeply indebted to the trustees for naming the library in honor of my mother," he said. "She was warm-hearted, friendly . . . and was interested in religious, civic, and educational institutions."

Lawrence and his wife, Julia Brantley Willet, took a special interest in Wesleyan because of Lucy Lester. They donated well over a million dollars to the College in her honor, including funds that furnished the Huckabee Memorial Infirmary in 1962.

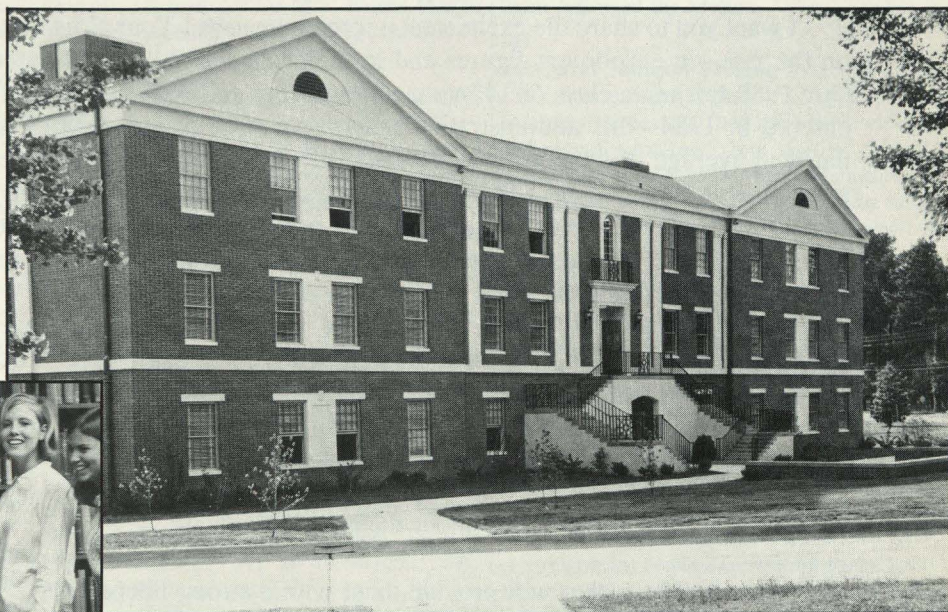

In 1965, the Willets gave nearly a quarter of a million dollars to build the new library, which amounted to a third of the cost of the entire project.

In letters to Dr. Earl Strickland, then president of Wesleyan, Lawrence Willet wrote, "Nothing that I have ever done has given me any more pleasure than to assist Wesleyan College in building a new library, which was named for my sweet mother. I cannot close this letter without expressing to you my genuine pleasure over having been able to make a small contribution in memory of my mother. If my mother had not been a student at Wesleyan, I doubt very much that she would ever have met my father, who moved to Macon from Penfield and graduated at Mercer University."

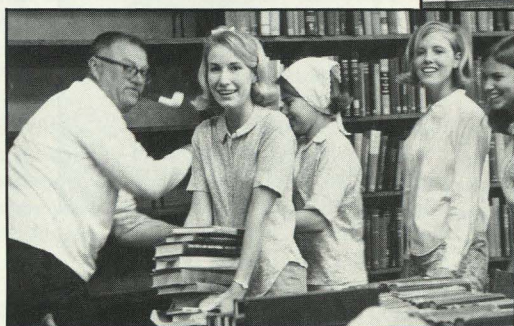

Lucy Lester married Hugh Miller Willet in Thomasville, GA,

“Nothing that I have ever done has given me any more pleasure than to assist Wesleyan College in building a new library, which was named for my sweet mother.” Lawrence Willet and they moved to Macon, where Lawrence was born in 1894. The family eventually moved to Atlanta, where she became a distinguished civic leader. Lucy Lester Willet served as president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs from 1909 to 1910 and as director of Talullah Falls School from 1913 to 1922.

Her son graduated from Georgia Tech with honors and married Julia Brantley from Blackshear, GA. A special agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee, WS and director of the American Society of Underwriters, Lawrence Willet became the first Georgian to receive the Chartered Life Underwriters designation from the American College of Life Underwriters. A life member of the Million Dollar Round Table, Mr. Willet was a charter member, former chairman and director of the Life Insurance Leaders of Georgia.

One of the original directors of H.W. Lay & Company, Mr. Willet also served as a director for FritoLay for more than 20 years. He gave to many educational institutions over the years, and in 1975, he received the President's Award from the Association of Private Colleges and Universities in Georgia for his contributions to higher education in the state.

His wife, Julia, graduated from Agnes Scott College. Active in the community, she was influential in founding the Young Matron's Circle for the Talullah Falls School and was the first president of the circle. She served as a trustee for the Children's Rehabilitation Center in Talullah Falls. A member of the Junior League and the Atlanta Historical Society, Julia Willet was a member of the History Club of 1884 for 55 years.

An artist, she decorated her house in northeast Atlanta with pictures of flowers and landscapes that she sketched. She also enjoyed spending quiet hours in a comfortable chair reading one of her many Georgia history books. According to one friend, Julia Willet had a very strong sense of responsibility and a great deal of compassion . . . she was a woman of great modesty.

When Julia Willet died in 1984, four years after her husband, she bequested several million dollars to eight beneficiaries, one of which was Wesleyan. In a resolution memorializing her, the author wrote, “Julia Brantley Willet was an elegant and beautiful woman, beautiful in person and in spirit . . . Her life was one of loving care and service—to her husband, parents, his parents, her beloved sister, Constance Brantley Ragan, and her sister's children and grandchildren. Of the many gifts she made, the greatest was the gift of herself. She enriched the life of all who knew her.”

The Willets gave much to Wesleyan. They saw the wisdom of supporting a liberal arts college devoted to educating women. In one of his last letters to Dr. Strickland, Lawrence Willet wrote, “If I had granddaughters, I would be happy if they were enrolled in Wesleyan College.”

You Make The Difference!

Dear Alumnae:

I want you to share the excitement—spread the news! Your alma mater is a college on the rise—in enrollment figures and in the academic abilities of entering students. Our 1988 freshman class of 142 young women is a full 35% larger than the class that entered in 1984—this administration's first year. Their average SAT score tops the national average of women by more than 125 points. For the first time since 1967, the average SAT score of an entering class exceeds 1000. Many of you have played a part in helping us to bring about this enrollment accomplishment. We deeply appreciate your interest in and involvement with student recruitment. Your support has made a difference!

The challenge now is to maintain the momentum while college admissions continues to become more competitive and aggressive. The hallmark of Wesleyan's recruitment program is a personal approach. Wherever you are and whatever you are doing, look around you. There are young women just waiting to hear about:

- A college that cares about them as individuals,
- A college that will provide them with a strong liberal arts background and thus an edge on graduate school acceptance and career advancement.
- A college that will fine tune their skills of leadership,
- A college with a rich heritage that for years has guarded its strong academic reputation,
- A college where the faculty knows each student and cares about her future, and
- A college that fosters an environment of high morality and integrity.

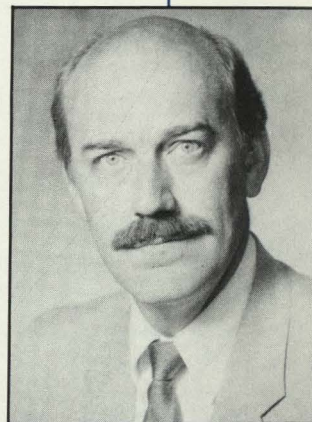

Tell them about Wesleyan! The two business reply cards included in this issue of the magazine give you the opportunity to help Wesleyan in very specific ways. Use the referral card to send us the names of prospective students, and we will send information to them. Encourage students to apply to Wesleyan, and use the endorsement statement to show your support and to have their application fee waived. I challenge each of you to join me in spreading the good news that in the near future Wesleyan will indeed be the pre-eminent college for women.

I hope to hear from you soon and often.

Sincerely,

E. Norman Jones
Dean of Admissions and Financial Planning

After sixty years in Louisville, KY, Katherine Thomas "K.T." Smith moved to Seabrook Retirement Community, Hilton Head Island, SC in 1986. Putting her journalistic talents to work (23 years writing for the Courier Journal and Louisville Times), she soon described her enjoyment of "Living It Up in The Eighties" for Islander Magazine. On Friday the 13th this past May, her children gave her a special celebration on her 90th birthday.

Lois Bennett Davis '33 writes that her sister Jeffie Bennett Smith '22 died this year. A memorial fund has been established in her name. Friends and family wishing to pay tribute to Jeffie can send gifts to the Jeffie Bennett Smith Book Fund in care of Wesleyan College. The books purchased will be added to Wesleyan's collection in Willet Library. An honor graduate, Jeffie taught Spanish at Wesleyan before moving back home to Hazelhurst. In addition to teaching English at Hazelhurst High School, Jeffie was instrumental in developing the school library. She and her husband, William, lived in Washington, GA for many years. After his death, Jeffie moved to Washington D.C. where she worked at the Library of Congress. In 1975, the Library of Congress honored Jeffie with the Meritorious Service Award, a distinction the famous library rarely bestows. In 1985, the Wesleyan Alumnae Association awarded Jeffie the Distinguished Achievement Award.

Enjoying opera, musical concerts, theater and art exhibits keeps Katherine Walker McElheny, Forth Worth, TX busy, she reports to Freda Nadler, Macon, GA. Grandson Chuck, a graduate of Rice University, is working as a chemical engineer; Grandson Davis, a sophomore at Trinity University, plays varsity soccer. Granddaughters Jane and Kasia are 14 and 11 and "growing up."

Our sympathy to Virginia Perry Buckner, Daytona Beach, FL, in the death of her aunt in Denver, CO and in the death of her friend, Marion Wright, who accompanied her to class reunion last spring. Virginia is hard at work this year as state manager for Mrs. Eldred Martin Yoachin, a candidate for President General of the National D.A.R.

On May 28, 1988, Laura Bond, Atlanta, GA, granddaughter of Katherine Snooks Walker, Pensacola, FL married Jack Barker, a recent Harvard graduate. Katherine's other three granddaughters were also part of the ceremony—Helen Walker, a junior bridesmaid, and Bett and Mary Katherine Walker, flower girls.

A luncheon given in honor of Louise Maxwell Barr, Winfield, WV by Dorothy Davidson Young, aunt of Rebekah Yates Anders '46, occasioned a mini-reunion of Wesleyanans. Rebekah remembered that when she was six, Louise had hosted an overnight stay in the dorm at the new Rivoli campus. Clara Young Jordan '37, Ida Young Walker '33, and Helen V. Yates '31, all of Macon, GA, attended the lunch party.

Everyone enjoyed visiting with Louise and catching up on her successful career. After a year at Wesleyan, she went to Duke University to study law. At 23, she became the 23rd woman to pass the West Virginia Bar exam. She then worked as legal counsel in all branches of state government and served more than twenty years as assistant attorney general before her retirement in 1976.

Margaret Johnson Snelling lives in Denver, CO, where her husband, Clarence, is a seminary professor. They have three children and recently returned from visiting one who lives in England. Now that Margaret has retired from social work, she says she is doing things she never had time for before—painting, traveling, and writing a book.

Judy Pomeroy Brooks' mother, who had been living with her, passed away this summer. Judy has retired from teaching but still stays very busy with church work in Orlando, FL. She sends greetings to all and plans to attend the reunion in '91.

Eleanor Shelton Morrison, Lansing, MI is pastor of Pilgrim Congregational United Church of Christ. In January, 1988, she and her daughter, Melanie, also a UCC clergywoman, began a consulting partnership. Leaven, Inc., offers retreats, workshops and consulting to churches and human service agencies in the areas of feminism, sexual justice, and spiritual development. Eleanor is the author of five books including Creative Teaching in the Church and Human Sexuality: Contemporary Perspectives.

After seventeen years as Director of the Virginia Tech YMCA, Emily Cottingham Stuart, Blacksburg, VA has retired. But that has just given Emily and husband, Bob, time to travel. They spent three weeks in Zimbabwe and Botswana hiking and visiting Church World Service projects, the University Botswana, animal preserves, and historic sites. They also took a YMCA tour of China where they visited YMCAs and churches as well as outstanding tourist sites. Emily recently received the ODK award for outstanding public service.

Last fall for their 40th anniversary celebration, Anna Lou Carrington Marvin's husband, Robert, planned a wonderful trip to Europe on the Queen Elizabeth II. Anna Lou also had a visit with Ben and Eugenia Davis Ash, who stopped by Walterboro, SC on their way to Nova Scotia.

Barbara Wright Keliehor, Gainesville, FL, took a trip to China last May. She and Roslyn Lewis Langley had hoped to get together while Roslyn was at her Stuart, FL home during the winter but could not. Roslyn and her husband, Jack, have built a new home in Lexington, KY and moved in during the spring.

This past January, Ida Long Rogers, Nashville, TN, spent three weeks in Brazil teaching three of her former students. She writes, "They are all administrators at the Methodist University

Message From The President

Dr. Robert K. Ackerman

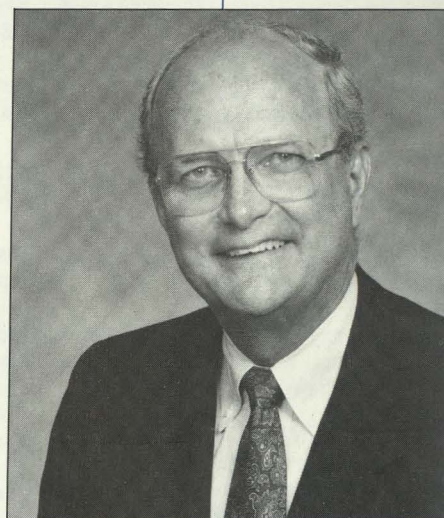

Dear Colleagues:

Greetings to all! It is my genuine pleasure to tell you of Wesleyan's progress. The total enrollment this fall has reached 544, an increase of 18% over the preceding year. The freshman class is the best prepared class in twenty-one years. The SAT average is now over 1,000 (and our average includes all freshmen; Wesleyan does not exclude any "special" students from these calculations.)

The U.S. News and World Report of October 10, 1988 has ranked Wesleyan 22nd of 418 institutions in the category entitled "Regional Liberal Arts." We are, of course, pleased to achieve this recognition from a national journal. We are encouraged to push on for a higher and higher ranking.

In the fall of 1989, the world's first college chartered to grant degrees to women will be the first women's college to give all freshmen a computer. In three years under the "Computer Focus" program, every full-time Wesleyan student will have a computer, printer, and software. The purpose is to facilitate learning in all disciplines and to ensure that every graduate is super literate in the use of computers. "Computer Focus" is not a departure from liberal arts. Rather, this program will be an important supplement to the traditional programs. Because the computer organizes and manipulates data quickly, it facilitates the learning process.

All of this is to say that you can be proud of your alma mater. We, of course, cherish your interest and support. I urge you to commit yourself via the Annual and Loyalty Funds to assist Wesleyan in its progress.

Sincerely,

Campaign Is a Success $10.8 Million Raised!

The Campaign For Advancement is a huge success! Not only did alumnae, trustees, faculty, staff, and friends meet the largest fund raising goal in Wesleyan's history, but they contributed 2 million dollars over the 8.8 million dollar goal.

"A great deal of the credit for the success of this campaign must go to Rose Mary McKelvey who, with a limited number of staff persons, provided excellent support to the hundreds of volunteers," said Don Welch, vice president of institutional advancement.

Of the $10.8 million raised, the trustees, alumnae, faculty, staff, and friends donated nearly 50 per cent of the funds needed. Corporations, Board of Associates, churches, bequests, and foundations contributed the remainder.

"With the campaign success complete," said Dr. Ackerman, "we are concentrating on significantly increasing the annual and loyalty funds and doubling the endowment with planned giving."

Wesleyan's Rising Star

by Donald J. Welch, Vice President of Institutional Advancement

What a thrill it is for me to be a part of the Wesleyan College family at such an exciting turning point in the history of this school! At no time in my career have I felt as close to the heart of the history of higher education in this country as I do each time I sing the Wesleyan alma mater. The line which begins the second stanza brings tears to my eyes and calls up special images for me.

"A star in the dark is thy glorious past, Forever and ever thy glory shall last."

It is difficult for us to imagine a country where a college degree for women was nonexistent. For two hundred years after the founding of Harvard in 1636, this was the case. Georgia Female College, later to be renamed Wesleyan, was not only the first chartered college for women, it was the first college of any kind to grant degrees to women. On the night of July 18, 1840 when Catherine Brewer led the 11 women graduates across the platform to receive their degrees, the star began to shine in the darkness that had suppressed the education of women for centuries.

In the midst of struggle and hardship, the star that is Wesleyan has never been extinguished. Each year since 1840, women have left this college equipped and educated to make significant contributions throughout the world.

Good things are happening here. The Campaign for Advancement exceeded its goal by $2,000,000. Wesleyan was named by U.S. News and World Report as one of the 25 best regional liberal arts colleges in the country. Computer Focus has begun.

On October 20, 1988, the board of trustees took a giant step into the future. After months of planning, the trustees unanimously adopted the outline of a strategic plan which boldly states:

Wesleyan shall be the pre-eminent woman's college in the southeast by the year 2000.

The star in the dark no longer lights only a glorious past; it shines brightly into a more glorious future. The persons named in this magazine have kept Wesleyan's star shining by their generous gifts. If your name is not among those listed, we hope you will make a significant gift this year. We further hope that past donors will make every effort to increase their gifts to the College.

Those colleges which Wesleyan must pass on the road to pre-eminence have one thing in common—their alumni provide a much larger share of the income for the operating budget of the school. This may be the price of pre-eminence. On the other hand, have you checked out the cost of a star lately? ☼

This year, these awards will be presented at the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association on April 15, 1989.

We would like you to submit a name for consideration. Please complete this nomination form and sent it to the Alumnae Office, Wesleyan College, 4760 Forsyth Rd., Macon, Georgia 31297. A biographical form for the nominee will be sent to the nominator.

Deadline for submission of a nominee is December 31, 1988.

1987-88 Alumnae Loyalty Fund By Classes

The following lists include the names of donors of the Annual Fund during the period July 1, 1987-June 30, 1988. These lists include donors of new restricted gifts, as well as donors of unrestricted gifts for operating expenses. Gifts made to the Annual Fund made after June 30, 1988, will be included in next year's report. Please report any errors or omissions to the Development office.

East Meets West At Wesleyan

On the first day of their U.S. tour, the Noh Shakespeare Group of Japan performed scenes from "Noh Hamlet" and "Noh Macbeth" to a spellbound audience in Wesleyan College's Porter Auditorium. The Noh group production expressed Shakespeare's original words in the classical Noh form of chant, choreography and music.

Characters wear elaborately embroidered kimonos, hakama (skirts) and tabi (split-toed socks). They also carry the traditional Japanese fan. In "Non Hamlet," Hamlet and Ophelia appear as both living characters and ghosts. When they appear as ghosts, they wear specifically crafted Noh masks.

"Noh is a theatre of poetry," said Kuniyoshi Munakata, founder, director and performer of the Noh Shakespeare Group. "By wedding Noh to the greatest theatre of poetry in the Western World, Shakespearean tragedy, we are bringing East and West together in the celebration of life that is art."

Although the Noh group has performed this unique blend of Shakespearean poetry with the 600-year-old theatre form in Tokyo and other theatres in Japan, this is the first time the experimental theatre has been performed in the United States. Wesleyan and YKK-(USA) Inc. co-sponsored this event. 🍵

Wesleyan's Excellence In Music Continues

The National Association of Schools of Music (NASM) approved Wesleyan College's music program as meeting national standards. NASM is recognized as the accrediting agency for post-secondary programs in music.

"The accreditation is significant," said Fletcher Anderson, professor of music, "because it means Wesleyan's music program, students, curriculum, faculty, facilities and administrative support staff all meet the highest standards of the profession."

During the 1987-88 school year, the music department conducted a self-study and NASM sent a visiting team for an on-site inspection, a normal procedure for an accrediting team. In June, the commission on undergraduate studies granted Wesleyan "continuing membership in good standing." Wesleyan has been a member of this organization since 1937.

"The entire Wesleyan community can be proud that the music programs are being recognized," said Dr. Anderson. "We are continuing to emphasize excellence in music as we have since the College's beginning in 1836." 🍵

Women In Music: A World Of Opportunity

In her morning lecture on "Women in Music: Chances and Choices," Eugenia Zukerman, flutist, writer and television commentator, told the Wesleyan audience that opportunities for women in music have undergone drastic changes in the last twenty years. According to the Katharine Payne Carnes guest lecturer, today's woman may choose from a wide variety of positions whereas in the past, she either taught or performed.

In addition to the two lectures she gave as part of the Carnes series, Ms. Zukerman held an informal meeting with students, faculty and staff. She answered questions about her personal choices as a musician and mother and performed a short recital.

Ranked among the handful of internationally renowned flutists, Ms. Zukerman is in great demand throughout North America and Europe. She has recorded on major recording labels, appeared on various talk shows and is the music commentator of CBS Sunday Morning.

An accomplished writer, Ms. Zukerman has written articles for various periodicals including Esquire, Vogue, and The New York Times. Her first novel, Deceptive Cadence, was published by Viking in 1981. Since then, she has written three screenplays, one of which was commissioned by Sally Field for Universal Pictures.

The Katharine Payne Carnes Lecture Series was established by the Wesleyan Alumnae Association to perpetuate the memory of Katharine Payne Carnes, librarian at Wesleyan for forty years. Her talents, abilities, energies, and insight established the foundation of the library collection at Wesleyan.

On the occasion of Miss Carnes' retirement, a faculty resolution commended "her devotion to her work, her uncompromising standards of excellence and her endeavors in the interest of the College." The endowed series will serve as a living memorial that honors the accomplishments of women and inspires women to greater achievements. 🍵

Fall semester at Wesleyan College is full of activities and opportunities for fun and learning. Students, faculty, staff, alumnae, and guests enjoyed happenings such as the Alumnae Leadership Meeting, the Katharine Payne Carnes Lecture series with Eugenia Zukerman, the annual Merchants Festival, and The D. Abbott Turner Center's Leadership Forum.

The third in a planned series of Wesleyan Christmas ornaments features "Wesleyan College on College Street."

Reproduced in four colors from an acrylic painting by Jean Parkins Heard '47, the ornament is mounted on wood and topped with a green velvet ribbon for hanging. The handcrafted ornament is dated Christmas 1988. The back side displays the Wesleyan college emblem and the wording "A star in the dark is thy glorious past . . ." You'll want to continue this holiday tradition . . . for this Christmas season and years to come. They make great gifts, too. This is a limited edition, so order your ornaments today.
